EJBE is an academic journal that will cater to an inter-disciplinary audience with the focus on relevant theoretical, empirical and policy issues in the aforementioned fields. It will be used as a forum for publishing different kinds of research outputs, including academic articles, on-going and completed research reports, abridged Masters and Ph.D dissertation, books reviews and commentaries.

In the main, the Journal welcomes articles on practical and theoretical issues touching upon the four main disciplines of the Faculty. However, we also welcome scholarly articles and other works of research that come out of inter-disciplinary research involving fields of study outside of the main disciplines of study of our Faculty. Simply put, articles both from within and outside of the Faculty are welcome as long as they satisfy the basic standards of an acceptable academic journal.
